Subject: Microsoft written settlement?

I am appalled that the Department of Justice has chosen the side of big business instead of the American public with this proposed settlement with Microsoft. Microsoft is a monopolistic behemoth that has been trampling on innovation for years. Its practices are apparent to all that care to look for them.

This proposed settlement seems as though it was written by Microsoft itself. In fact, David Coursey, a Microsoft lackey writing for PC Magazine, in reviewing the proposal was even embarrassed by it. Why isnt the Justice Department embarrassed for floating it?

I have voted Republican in every election since I began voting 26 years ago. This proposal gives me serious concern in continuing that trend.

As an aside, we should get out of Afghanistan immediately as I believe we have no right to enforce justice worldwide when we are not doing so at home. Why isnt my flag waving today?
